1953 Spring Convention

For its twelfth semi-annual convention the California State Numismatic Association again goes to the north, this time to Merced, perhaps a hundred miles south and east of San Francisco in that great valley from which comes so much of the fruit, grain and produce for which California is famous.

Altho Merced is not a large city, its population is perhaps 20,000, it has in the Hotel Tioga a place which affords us every facility for the convention. Large comfortable lobby, coffee shop, banquet room, cocktail lounge, large well appointed rooms at reasonable rates. Santa Fe and Greyhound bus lines are adjacent to the hotel and the Southern Pacific station is a block away. There are daily flights by air to San Francisco.

If you are planning on driving, it is the nicest time of the year to see the valley and foothills at their best. The famous California wild flowers should be out in full bloom and there are numbers of short side trips from Merced which are well worth taking an extra day to see.

Merced is known as the Gateway to Yosemite and it is only a few hours drive to that magnificent valley of towering cliffs, waterfalls, rushing streams, giant trees; a place which if you have not seen you should not miss, and if you have, you will want to visit again.

The Merced Coin Club is only a year old, but it makes up in its enthusiasm what it lacks in experience. Begun in January 1952 with nine members, it now boasts a membership of 50 seniors and 9 juniors. In 1952 it took second award for Class B clubs in National Coin Week competition. Under the leadership of its president, George Coolures, and Dr. William E. Fountain we are confident that Merced will be another fine convention, April 10, 11 and 12.

THE COINS OF KOREA

By ALAN D. CRAIG

Korea's history was a turbulent one as far back as antiquity records it. Internal and external unrest and constant change made the land's foundation shaky, so that endeavors of permanent weight, such as a monetary system, could not be built to stand solidly. Korea has been rebuilding cities, palaces, monuments, civilization and government as long as those things have been with her. There were five main religions in the pre-Christian era: Confucianism, Bhuddism, Shamanism, Fetichism and Animism. There were infulxes and effluxes of people from wars in China and political parties vieing for prominent position. The Koreans developed a simplified alphabet in 1446 A.D., consisting of 25 main letters; a combination of ancient Chinese Seal Characters and Sanscrit writing, and they stuck to this alphabet. On account of this and other characteristics, Korea is referred to sometimes as the "Hermit Kingdom." The Korean kingdom has been divided from the very beginning; even at the formation of the Ki Ja Dynasty when she emerged from barbarism, the land was composed of six states: Packche, Silla, Mimana, Kala, Jin-Hahn and Ma-Hahn. The people as a whole were (and are) highly emotional and superstitious, whose decisisions could sometimes be swayed "by the playing of a favorite waltz", as it were, yet who were also set in their ways, once that way became clear. In many ways indeed some are quite different, which often gives rise to amusing anecdotes—(your author, during his researches on this subject when he was a serviceman overseas during the present conflict, was told (in writing) by a Korean diplomatic mission he contacted that it would "amount approximately 1,500.00 U.S. Dollar" to supply information on old Korean coins from the Korean Ministry of Finance). The general erraticism of the systems of coinage and the many results following, some of which have never been paralleled anywhere, can be traced to this unrest of almost perpetual inclination. For the collector of coins, it forms a project of nearly inexhaustable length and fascination.

This history is started with an account of early Chinese numismatics, then is branched off into the Korean coinages in order that a more perfectly rounded understanding may be developed of the birthright and the early references of the coins of Korea. Bibliography and contributors are to be listed at the end of the study.

SECTION I
ANCIENT MEDIUMS OF EXCHANGE

The first items of barter in ancient China were cowrie shells, which were valued for their ornamental purposes. Copper and bronze in the form of garden spades and knives was valued as a commodity of general use. As the civilization progressed, the idea of a coinage developed with the first coin-objects taking the shapes of the barter items (reduced in size). Thus the cowrie shell, specimens of which have been found in remains of the Shang Dynasty of China (1,766 to 1,122 B.C.), was imitated in carvings of animal bone and in bronze, with these shells and their imitations being strung on strings, in much the same fashion as was the Indian Wampum of early American colonial days. The knife coins maintained the same general shape as the barter items and were inscribed with the name of the state or city which guaranteed their value. The shape of the Spade Money originally followed very closely the shape of the garden implement from which it was derived; it even had a hollow space for inserting a wooden handle and the tips were sharply pointed. As time progressed the size was reduced again and again until the coins became small, flat shapes of metal which are now known as Pu Money. From the time they were adopted, these pieces were all as completely legal tender as any modern coin and could be used to purchase silks and other fineries as easily as for common items.

Another interesting type of ancient medium of barter (not illustrated), is that which was used by the Chinese hierarchy living in palaces and courtyards—they used a special jade money within their enclosures, which was carved by artisans and made into all kinds of animal, symbolical and object forms. The finest and most valuable pieces were decorated with gold inlay. All the jade carvings are now rare; the gold-inlay pieces being very rare and highly-prized objects of art.

The plate of ancient Chinese money-objects is as follows:

(REDUCED SIZE: the actual width of the base of No. 1 is approximately 87 millimeters — photo is about 28 mm.).

1. Tschou Dynasty large copper spade used as money in pre-coinage era. Lower portion later broken off for convenience. Value of "two" indicated on the right side. Used from about 2,000 to 1,000 B.C. Very rare piece.

2. Copper Spade Money, medium size. (Rare). Extremely rare are the specimens of this type found in the same size as No. 1. These pieces are thin and fragile, and are usually found with broken edges. A perfect specimen is virtually unobtainable. Used from 400 to 250 B.C.

3. Copper Spade Money, small size, also used from 400 to 250 B.C. Slightly thicker than preceding. The handle on this and the two preceding spades are hollow in order to insert a handle, forming a trowel type of an implement. These are also rare, although less than the preceding.

4. Pu Money copper, about 1 mm. in thickness. There are variations of these. Large, heavily executed types about 50% larger than these were the first Pu's. There are several varieties of shapes, ranging from common to unique. Used from 340 to 250 B.C.

5. Bridge Money copper used as ornament. Most are plain pieces which look much like a boomerang. This ornately designed style is rare. Circa 500 B.C.

6. Knife Money, large size. The most common are the pieces with three characters on the blade. The illustrated piece is a scarcer variety with four characters. The rarest are 5 and 6-character pieces, and there is an extremely rare specimen with 9 characters. (The correct position of Knife Money is pointed upwards—one reads up and down.) Used from 680 to 260 B.C.

7. Ming Knife Money (of the City of Ming), used from 480 to 255 B.C. Some of these were imported to Korea, where they circulated for a time, and will be commented upon presently.

Writings of ancient Korean storytellers relate of specimen currency-objects imported from China as early as the beginning of the Ki Ja Dynasty of Korea in 1,122 B.C. (Tschou Dynasty in China), and that pattern Korean pieces were imitated from these styles by the Koreans and kept in the governmental treasury "to be taken out and admired from time to time". Due to the lack of identifiable objects, no definite description is available. It is also recorded that an issue of paper money in Korea was made in those times, which in form was a square piece of linen with the seal of the Korean king, known by the name "dirty linen" to the common man. Thus Korea may take credit for the invention of paper money, but some doubt should remain until an identifiable specimen comes to light.

The Koreans had a counterpart of the special Jade pieces of the Chinese hierarchy. A few of the below-illustrated objects have been found in old temples, palace ruins and other repositories in Korea. These two objects are of copper. The larger bears the carved inscription "Sang Mun", meaning "Upper (class) (unit of) Money". The reverse and sides are plain, and the small specimen bears the dividing line with no inscription, indicating that it was a fractional denomination. These pieces were used in the period of the ancient Chinese moneys.

It was not until 230 B.C. when the Chinese people of Kan fled from the wars accompanying the fall of the Tschou Dynasty in China, that the ordinary people of Korea who bartered rice, cloth, tools, etc., underwent any substantial introduction to the currency forms of China. The people of Kan brought with them small-size Ming Knife pieces (see No. 7 in plate of Chinese moneys). These people attempted to use them as money in Korea the same as they had in China, as the idea had long since been well-established. The custom had not spread to Korea as they thought, however, and the pieces were not nearly as readily usable, since they were looked upon chiefly as curiosities. These small knife coins are found buried in old mud fences and wells from time to time. Their use was limited, yet they served to "break the ice" in producing the first practical idea of monetary values among the people of Korea.

In 52 A.D., the first gold piece—an ingot, became a part of Korea's currencies. This was made in the part of Korea then known as Shinra, consisting of about 2/3 of the Korean peninsula. In supplement to this, there were silver and copper flat-plate squares and after the passage of about 300 years, giant iron weights in plate form were also introduced and circulated. The giant iron plates averaged about 350x50x5 mm. in size. An account of the use of these three types of money is recorded on an old Korean temple stone.

These objects, the first to resemble coins, were made sometime during the 2nd Century, A.D., in copper and iron, but were circulated only in a small section of the Shinra Province. They were not popular due to the easy possibility of counterfeiting them. Their manufacture was abandoned after a short issue and their use was forgotten quickly. The illustrated objects are thought to be genuine specimens of these.

Between 300 and 500 A.D., Japan's influence resulted in the introduction of a foreign trade piece; a Japanese gold-plated Ring Money, which became an exchange money between Japan and Korea. (This idea took root in the form of "Trade Dollars" in coinage of modern times.)

The gold is battered and has flaked off, or has been worn off completely on most specimens. Rarity indicated pertains to pieces in fine condition with at least ½ of the gold-plate still present, as per the photographed specimen.

(A ring type money had been used in China as early as 1,120 B.C., for redemption of the punishment for corporal crimes.)

A very long pause in usage of currencies was broken finally between the period of 618 to 907 A.D. At that time, China minted an extensive number of coins called "Kai Yuan

T'ung Pao," — the "Universal Jewel of the K'ai Yuan Period." *

These coins were minted in copper and on rare occasions gold-plated copper and silver specimens were also made. (Four specimens are known in thin gold; the characters being convex on one side and concave on the other.) Circulation started in China and Korea. In China they were taken as a matter of course, simply as a new coinage, but not a great many were used in Korea at that time due to the unfamiliarity of money and also to the feeling of native independence of the Koreans, the same way as with the Ming Knives.

There are specimens which bear a crescent on the reverse. This was from the presentation of the first coin-mould in wax being presented to the Chinese Empress, Wu Te. She indicated her seal of approval by pressing her fingernail into the wax. In deference to her grandeur, this mark was given a celestial aspect by calling it the "new moon" of the empress. It appears as a raised line on the specimens that bear it. (Photographed specimen does not.) There are many sizes and die varieties of this coin.

During the latter part of the Sil La Dynasty of Korea (57 B.C. to 917 A.D.), a piece known as "Sung Chon" (Star Money) made its appearance. This piece was disc-shaped, bearing the legend "Heaven Sanctioned Eastern Treasure" on one side and two stars on the other. Concurrently, pieces known as "Dragon" and "Tortise" coins appeared. These were the forerunners of the amulets and coin charms of Korea, of which many types and shapes were made in the period of the later cast coinages from the latter part of the 17th Century, A.D. Coin charms were used in religious ceremonies and rites and as souvenirs, etc., hence they are not assigned numbers. The molds for these earliest coin-charms were borrowed from the Chinese who had used them as coins previously.

Although these first few attempts at monetary exchange would seem to have been enough for adoption of some kind of a financial system for Korea the idea of use of representatives of exchange died each time it was introduced. Virtually all exchange continued on by means of the old, established, unchanging system of barter, except for the brief periods in areas where these methods waxed and waned rapidly.

* It was a custom in China for the soverign to assume several different names called "Titles of the Reign," (Chin. Nien Hao), during a given reign. Coinage under one emperor, therefore, does not always bear the same inscription.

President-Elect Eaton then spoke a few words of acceptance.

The business of the evening being completed, the Christmas party became the order of the day. During a brief intermission, punch was served. Mr. Hawley then took over again, this time as song-leader for Christmas carols. Following this, Member Frank X. Galvin became our jovial Santa Claus and officiated at the exchange of gifts.

Cake and coffee provided an appropriate ending for an evening during which "a good time was enjoyed by all" of the 68 members and guests present.

HANFORD COIN CLUB. — The regular meeting was called to order at 7:30 P.M. Tuesday, December 2, in the Hotel Wilton. There were 18 members present and one guest.

President Clarence Berry presided. After a short business session, Ed Fish gave us a very interesting talk on his trip to the convention. Ralph (Curley) Mitchell also gave us a fine talk on the activities of other clubs and what we might do for the good of the Hanford Club.

President Berry reported on his plans for our next meeting night which will be ladies night as well as the installation of new officers for the next year.

Several lots of coins were auctioned off, refreshments served, and the meeting adjourned.

Speakers for the evening included the following who spoke briefly on the subjects indicated:

Harold McCabe: Trade Dollars with display of P, S, and CC types.

Bill Koonce: Dekadrachm of Syracuse, Tetradrachms of Alexander and Lysimachus.

Stuart Bingham: Spoke for the California Numismatic Association Merced Spring Meeting.

Michael Carey, whose fine book on the "Emperors of Rome" has been very well received, had on display two beautiful examples of Roman Bronzes inscribed IMP:CAES:M.-AUR:ANTONINUS.PIUS.AUG, both of which were mounted with legend under glass. The GB of Caracalla was bearded while the MB of Elagabus was not. This fact was about the only distinguishing feature, according to Mr. Carey.

Dealers' displays consisted of those of Karl Brainard, Russ Snyder, and Joe Block.

A lively auction of some very nice material consisting of some 100 lots was well received by the 43 members and guests present.

Appreciation was expressed for the efforts of the outgoing officers in making the year a success.

The Board of Governors for the coming year were elected by unanimous vote. They are: Messrs. Nelson, Johns, Block, McCabe, Fanning, and Williams.

Any suggestions for improving the meetings should be given to the officers or the board and it is hoped that visitors passing through will assist us in making this the greatest year in the long history of the LACC (formerly the California Coin Club).

ORANGE COUNTY COIN CLUB. The 174th regular monthly meeting of the Orange County Coin Club was held Wednesday evening, November 26, 1952, at the Brea Woman's Clubhouse with President Curtis presiding over a packed house of 113 members and guests. Six new members were admitted at the meeting, thus giving the club a total paid-up membership of 191 for the year 1952, only leaving nine new members to be recruited in order to reach the goal of 200 which President Curtis set for his term in office.

The President ordered a minute of silent reverence in memory of two club members who were suddenly taken by death in early November. The first to be taken was Rockney F. Courreges of Huntington Beach. He had only joined the club at the October meeting as an enthusiastic new collector. His untimely death was due to a traffic accident which took place when he was returning to his home from a meeting with another coin collector. The second loss came with the sudden death of A. E. Sanden from a heart attack. He operated a coin and stamp shop at Santa Ana and was one of our most active members, having been in charge of the club auctions for many months.

The nominating committee appointed by President Curtis announced the following list of candidates for the year 1953: President, John Haldiman Jr.; Vice-President, Harry S. Davidson; Treasurer, Fred E. Draper; Secretary, Herbert M. Bergen; Directors, Dr. C. Glenn Curtis, Dr. C. L. Emmons, Joe Steele, Winn Osborne, Eldon H. Knaus. The report of the committee was unanimously adopted after no one ventured a nomination from the floor. Election of these officers was slated for the December meeting.

Program Chairman John Haldiman then introduced the speaker, Abe Kosoff, nationally known connoisseur of coins from the Numismatic Gallery of Los Angeles. His subject, "Coins of Antiquity," was a real treat for the big crowd of coin lovers who were on hand to hear him. The speaker described the most historic coins which circulated in the region of Asia Minor and the eastern Mediteranean, the cradle of modern civilization, from about 650 B.C. to about 170 A.D. He also told briefly the historical aspects of each of these coins, particularly those coins which are identified by biblical reference, such as the Jewish shekel of the Maccabees, the famous Widows Mite issued under the Roman rule of Herod, the equally famous Tribute Penny of the Roman Emperor Tiberius, the tetradrachm of Tyre which probably was among the thirty pieces of silver paid to Judas for the betrayal of Christ, and the Judea Capta coin issued under the Roman Emperor Vespasian in 71 A.D.

The speaker brought with him for display superb specimens of these historical coins. In addition he also displayed such coins as the silver Aegina (650-550 B.C.), the "OWL" coin of Athena (550-431 B.C.), the Gold Daric of Persia (521-486 B.C.) which contributed to rebuilding the Temple in Jerusalem, the Pegasos of Corinth (550-250 B.C.), and numerous others of later dates.

From the standpoint of pure numismatics, this program was certainly without a peer in the current year of events for this club as the audience indicated by its interest and attention.

Following intermission for refreshments, the regular auction of member offerings of coins was held under direction of Joe Steele. The success of this auction was matched by the Junior auction held earlier in the meeting under direction of Adolph Larson Jr. A noteworthy contribution to this auction was a large lot of "beginner coins" received from Stuart Mosher, editor of the Numismatist. Our thanks to him for his interest in this feature of our program.

—Herb Bergen,
Secretary.

THE SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY COIN CLUB held its 53rd meeting on the 20th of November. Third Thursdays are our meeting nights. The meetings are held at the San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce office.

This was our "Ladies Night." Six wives came and the members not bringing wives were required to bring three coins picturing women. Some of these coins were very interesting.

Election of officers was held and Opie Arnold was elected president, O. H. Lages, vice-president; Herb Feinberg, Treasurer; Ben Coon, Recording Secretary; and our reliable corresponding secretary, Fred Coops, was unanimously re-elected.

The program of the evening was the A.N.A. slides on "Famous Women on Coins." This is a very interesting series as it is not limited to any one period, denomination, or metal. It is especially good for a ladies night, as it shows the wives that there is something good about coins.

—Bryan Burke, Jr.,
Recording Secretary.

THE SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY COIN CLUB held its December meeting at the usual meeting place, the San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce office. There were 15 members present.

The main business of the meeting was to plan the exhibit at the second annual hobby show to be held by the city of San Bernardino. This show drew thousands last year and we are glad to be a part of it this year.

After a nice door prize drawing, the program of fractional currency was shown. This is another set of slides offered by the A.N.A. Slide committee. They are all fine sets, and this is one of the best. It gives a type set of these small bills, with particular attention to the reverses. The books and articles on fractional currency are usually hampered by the laws prohibiting the illustrating of these bills. This set was made with the authority of the secretary of the treasury, and the pictures are of such fine detail that the fine writing can easily be read. The historical information given with the set is thorough.

There were some fine exhibits displayed.

Howard Smith brought his fractional currency shield.

Dr. Emmons brought a complete set of half dimes in proof and uncirculated condition, including the 1859 with reverse of 1860, in proof condition.

Fred Coops displayed a note of the Philippine National Bank.

The next meeting is to feature a quiz program on coins. This is to be a program in which all who know a little about coins will have an equal chance.

The meeting closed with the usual auction of members' duplicates.

—Bryan Burke, Jr,
Recording Secretary.

SAN DIEGO NUMISMATIC SOCIETY held its 187th regular meeting at Dartlee Hall on December 2 with 55 members and visitors present. Election of officers resulted in the following:

Treasurer .....Paul Boltz
Librarian .....Atwood MacDonald
Governor .....James Crouthamel
Junior Vice-President .....Clive Foss

It was announced that the officers above would be installed at the annual meeting to be held on January 17 at the Manor Hotel. Among those present were Chief Warrant Officer Raymond with Mrs. Raymond, back from a tour of the western states, Master Sgt. Lang, recently returned from duty in Japan, and Karl and Mrs. Brainard of Los Angeles. Lt. Luttmer displayed several sets of scrip used by navy personnel on Japtan Island during the Eniwetok operation. Display awards went to E. H. Lang, Francis Jones and Albert Conyne in that order. SAN JOSE COIN CLUB. — Perhaps some have wondered why no notes from San Jose lately. If so, the following will bring you up to date. Meetings have been regularly held in the Hotel DeAnza with from 20 to 25 or more in attendance with lively auctions and good speakers.

In the December meeting held Monday, December 1, the following set of officers were electd to carry the destinies of the club for the year 1953: Mr. Douglas E. Perham, president; George F. Hodges, vice-president; Syl C. Tully, secretary; Vincent Guarnera, treasurer; George F. Kohl, librarian-historian; and Ralph Mitchell and Roy Hill to serve on the board of governors.

After the election, Ralph "Curly" Mitchell gave a talk on the origin and development of the Dollar, tracing its history from the St. Joachimsthaler through Bohemia, Austria-Germany and Scandinavia to England, displaying specimens to illustrate his talk from his fine collection, these being some of his specialty pieces.

Following Mr. Mitchell's talk, Dr. Nathan A. Bowers continued on U.S. Dollars, giving some very interesting facts concerning the early minted issues. Mr. Mitchell introduced Dr. Bowers with a very unique and witty statement to which Dr. Bowers replied with equally witty remarks, saying that after such an introduction as that, "A fellow might as well throw the fork on the wagon and drive on up to the barn," however, he continued and displayed a very unique case he had made for easy display and carrying same in an ordinary briefcase, the coins remaining in their respective places at all times.

The president opened the meeting with a short but concise talk on the benefits and value of membership in the A.N.A. and the C.S.N.A., making available application blanks for any who might wish to join.

The November meeting was addressed by Mr. George F. Hodges on the subject of paper money. Mr. Hodges followed the course of our currency from Colonial days on up to our present Federal Reserve System which was described at considerable length, showing the various moves from the Bureau of Engraving & Printing on through till it reaches the pockets of the individual.

After the talk, Mr. Wm. Smith and Mr. Earl Parker gave reports on the CSNA convention, the finest yet, making those who had not attended feel they had really missed something very good.

Displays by Mr. Parker, Mr. Smith, Mr. Tully and Mr. Perham were explained by each, after which Mr. Parker conducted the auction of some 20-odd lots, netting a good sum to the club.

The October meeting was held in Room 222 of the Hotel DeAnza with Mr. Roy Hill being the main speaker. His subject was "The Metals from which our Coins are made." He displayed the various metals and the coins from which they had been made. His talk was supplemented by talks by Mr. Syl C. Tully Jr. and Mr. Edward Fogler of Oakland.

After the talks and displays had been described and discussed, an auction of mostly large bills (that is, the large size bills) of U.S. paper money was conducted by Mr. Fogler. Some bills bringing a good price, but others going at bargains. There were a number of lots of early English coins, some of which brought good prices.

The New Year opened with a meeting held Monday, January 5, under the new president, Mr. Douglas E. Perham.

NATIONAL COIN WEEK

April 17-23, 1953

Announcement was made in The Numismatist, official magazine of the American Numismatic Association, that National Coin Week would be observed the week of April 17-23. Departing from the usual custom of selecting a particular coin or series of coins for a theme, it is announced that this year displays would feature "Coins of Historical Significance." Since any coin or series of coins can be said to be of "historical significance," it is apparent that the field is wide open.

The General Chairman for the event is Mr. E. Ward Russell, who is serving his second term as president of the Washington Numismatic Society. Mr. Russell is well qualified for the post. In 1951 he was awarded second place for individual participation in National Coin Week and for several years has directed his club's programs.

It is planned to contact all corporate clubs by mail, giving full details. Correspondence regarding the event should be addressed to Mr. E. Ward Russell, 902 Jackson Avenue, Takoma Park Station, Washington 12, D. C.

Since National Coin Week follows so closely after our convention at Merced, it is interesting to note that a proposal was made to permit displays at a club level. Such displays could very well be made with a view to further display a week later during National Coin Week.

The corners are torn off from two-dollar bills to take away their "bad luck."

The peace dollar was authorized at the suggestion of the American Numismatic Association, as a coin which would "be of an appropriate design commemorative of the termination of the war" between Germany and the United States.

Did you know that at one time there was a proposal to coin dollars out of both silver and gold in equal value, making the center of the coin gold and the outside silver, with the outside thick enough to save the more precious metal in the center from wearing away.

TO PROVIDE DISPLAYS AT A CLUB LEVEL

One of the resolutions presented at Arrowhead Springs reads "to provide for displays at conventions at a club level." The resolution was referred to the Exhibit Rules committee headed by Dr. N. A. Bowers who reports that there is nothing in the rules to prevent such an exhibit, since Group "I" provides for any classification not listed otherwise.

Presentation of the resolution presumably indicates that one or more clubs are planning on making an exhibit representing the combined effort of several or perhaps many of the club members. It is an interesting possibility and we hope that one or more clubs take advantage of the opportunity, particularly since such a display might well be the nucleus for a display for National Coin Week. It might give a group of collectors an opportunty to display when none of them would feel that his own collection was worthy by itself. Let's give it a trial.

MEET ALAN CRAIG

Mr. Alan D. Craig of Berkeley, the first installment of whose brochure "The Coins of Korea" appears in this issue, spent several years with the armed forces in Japan and Korea. Becoming interested in the coinage of the land he soon found that in addition to finding the coins he had also to learn about them, a matter which proved difficult because there was practically no written record, and what there was, was in Japanese or Korean, and had to be translated. The research into the subject led him to practically every dealer and authority in both Japan and Korea.

Major Charles V. Kappen, editor of Calcoin News, and now on duty in Japan writes, "Everywhere I go in search of Korean coins I run into Craig's old trails." Mr. Craig has written this article so that others who are interested in this series might have the benefit of his research and study. His fine collection of Korean coins took a first award at the recent Arrowhead Springs convention.

Names in History

MITHRADATES THE GREAT

That handsome duck up there is Mithradates the Great, who ruled Parthia from 120 to 88 B.C.

In case there is anyone present who does not have a speaking acquaintance with Parthia, it was located in what now would be Northern Persia or Iran.

Teheran, where Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin recently met, is located in what once was the private preserves of this handsome king.

As you look at his features, you are aware that he is no Apollo or Alexander the Great in looks. However, the Aryan race is supposed to have started in and near Mithradates territory, so we must accept his nibs as one of us.

While Mithradates was off the beaten path of the Roman Empire, he was the first Parthian king to have negotiations with Rome.

Reverse of this coin shows Mithradates sitting on his throne holding a bow, with a lot of lettering aronnd him.

If this wording runs true to form of those old fellows, it no doubt is telling what a wonderful king is Mithradates.

Who's Who In California Numismatics

EUGENE D. JOHNSTON

A Hoosier by birth, he was born in New Albany, Indiana, on August 21, 1883. "Gene" Johnston spent his early years at Mattoon and Olney in Illinois where he attended grammar and high school. Three years as grocery clerk in Olney was followed by some years with the telephone company in St. Louis and Chicago before coming to San Bernardino, California, in 1910.

Several years as grocery clerk was followed by six years in the post-office at San Bernardino as sorter and carrier. In 1919 he began a career as sewing machine salesman which he followed until 1941. During that time he traveled over most of California and parts of Arizona. From 1941 to 1945 he served on the security force at the Bank of America and at Naval Air Station and Consolidated Vultee in San Diego, and at the close of World War II he returned to Indiana for a two-year visit with his sister in Indianapolis. While there he embarked on his present venture as a stamp and coin dealer, and on his return to San Diego in 1947 he opened a coin shop on 10th and Broadway which he operates as Johnston's Coin Exchange.

Johnson served with the Illinois National Guard from 1901 to 1910 and on coming to San Bernardino that year he enlisted in the 7th California Infantry of the National Guard, serving until 1916. He was married in 1926 and has one son living in the Pacific Northwest.

His interest in numismatics began in 1939 when he joined the San Diego Numismatic Society, and he at once became a very active collector of the U.S. series. He served as president of the San Diego club in 1944 and 1945 and has held several other offices. He holds membership also in the Orange County Coin Club, has been a member of the American Numismatic Association since 1940, and holds membership number 100 in CSNA. He served on the Board of Directors in 1950-51.

CORRECTION

Bryan Burke called our attention to the fact that in the September issue we listed Mr. W. C. Lange as publicity chairman, whereas that post was most capably filled by Mr. O. H. Lages.

No small amount of the credit is due Mr. Lages for the fine job he did in the months preceding the Arrowhead Springs convention. In addition to running weekly articles in the local papers he got notices in practically every paper of any size in California, and wound up with a fifteen minute TV program just before the convention. Mr. Lages is the newly elected vice-president of the San Bernardino Coin Club.
